MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

Transmitting a Report made to him by the Secretary of War, and other information relative to the affairs of the United States, with certain tribes of Indians. Gentlemen of the Senate, and of the House of Representatives,

I enclose a report of the Secretary at War, stating the trading houses establishlished in the Indian territories, the progress which has been made in the course of the last year, in settling and marking boundaries with the different tribes, the purchases of lands recently made from them, and the prospect of further progress in marking boundaries, and in new extinguishments of title in the year to come, for which some appropriations of money will be wanting.

To this I have to add, that when the Indians ceded to us the Salt-springs on the Wabash, they expressed a hope that we would fo employ them as to enable them to procure their necessary supplies of falt. Indeed it would be the most proper and acceptable form in which the annuity could be paid which we propose to give them for the cession. These springs might at the same time be rendered eminently serviceable to our western inhabitants, by using them as the means of countervailing the monopolies of the supplies of falt, and of reducing the price in that country to a just level. Fer these purposes a small appropration would be necessary to meet the first expences, after which they should support themselves, and repay those advances. These springs are faid to possess the advantage of being accompanied with a bed of coal.

TH: JEFFERSON. January 18, 1803.

A letter from the Secretary of War, dated 17th January, 1803, accompanying a Message from the President of the United Ssates, received the 18th January, > WAR DEPARTMENT, 17th January 1803. The President of the United States.

SIR, By treaties held with the Creek and Choctaw nations of Indians in the course of the last year, confiderable tracts of land have been obtained, and there is reason to believe that additional cessions may be obtained on reasonable terms from the aforementioned and other Indian nations in the course of the present

The boundary line between the state of North Carolina and the Cherokees, has been completed, and the line between the Natchez territory and the Choclaws, is probably by this time established & marked, in a manner which it is prefumed will be fatisfactory to the United States and to the Chocian nation,

A boundary line has also been agreed on to the tract of land on the Wabash river, including Vincennes, which will foon be run and marked; and likewise the lines around the two tracts on the portage be. tween the head waters of the Wabash and the Miami of the Lake, including fort Wayne. Some measures have been taken for afcertaining the boundaries between the Indians and the white people on the Mississippi, commonly called the Kaskaskia fettlements, below the mouth of the Illinois river; but for want of authentic docoments, it will probably be necessary to refort to a new convention with the In--dian nation for establishing faid boundaries, and for procuring some additional eessions for the purpole of affording means for encreating and strengthening that distant and exposed frontier.

In addition to the two factories, or In. dian trading houles, heretofore established, ir has been considered as adviseable to establish four others, one at Detroit, one at Fort- Wayne, one at Chifckafaw Bluff, & one with the Choclaws. The furplus of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, appropriated by an act of Congress, of the 16th of April, 1796, and which had not been applied to the two factories heretofore effa. bliffied, on the frontiers of Georgia and of Tennessee, has been applied to the four other establishments recently made.

From an investigation of the accounts made and reported to Congress at its last session, it was satisfactorily evident, that the funds employed prior to that period had not been diminished, and it is consi-without diminution, but with very great advantage to the public, not in point of commercial profits, but by attaching and fecurng the friendship and confidence of the natives, which cannot be sufficiently relied on, while their towns and hunting camps are constantly the refort of unprincipled foreign traders, who make every exertion in their power, to withdraw the confidence of the natives from the United States, and to inspire them with jealousies and unfriendly dispositions towards our frontier fettlers, our public agents, and the government.

The greatest caution has been observed in felecting the agents for managing the several factories, and in the course of another year, it is presumed, that a satisfactory statement may be made of the state of the funds, and of the effects of their ap-

An appropriation of ten thousand dollars* to enable the executive to embrace any favorable opportunity for obtaining any further cession of land from the natives, and a renewal of the act authorifing the establishment of trading houses with the Indians, with a renewal of the appropriation for that object, is submitted to the confideration of Congress.

With respectful consideration, I am, fir, Your humble fervant, H. DEARBORN.

* This fum is in addition to the sum is the general estimate.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

House of Representatives. Wednesday January 19.

Debate on the REPORT of the COMBITTED on so much of the PRESIDENT' MES SAGE as relates to NAVY-YAIDS and DOCKS.

Mr. Mitchell moved that the house do now resolve itself into a committee of the whole, to confider the report of the felect committee, to whom had been referred that part of the President's mesfage which relates to improvements on navy yards, and the construction of a dry dock at the city of Washington.

The motion, after a short convessation, was agreed to, and Mr. J. C. Smith took the chair.

The first resolution was read in the following words-

Resolved, that for securing from waste and loss the timber and other public property on the different navy yards, and er dispatch of business, the Secretary of ships of war, and of preserving them dry requifite buildings and sheds to be erected, to be made; and for accomplishing the dollars are hereby appropriated, to be paid out of any monies in the treasury not otherwise approwould be no need of much argument to could be spared at this time from the treaconvince the committee of the propriety of adopting the proposition before them. There were fix navy yards belonging to rife. the nation. There were a quantity of timber and materials for naval prepara. tions on each of them. These had been purchased at great expence, and deposited for future use. By virtue of existing contracts, more timber, particularly that for building the fix 74's, was expected .-When collected and delivered at the feveral places of destination, it ought to be preferved with the greatest care. This timber was of the most precious kind .-Much of it was live oak from the fouth. ern state. The quantity and value of it in the yards at New. York, Portsmouth, Norfolk, Charlestown, Philadelphia and Washington, could be seen in the reports of the Secretary of the Navy. Many of the pieces for keels, stems and stern posts, were very selected and difficult to be procured. That invaluable timber was grow. ing scarce. In the progress of cultivation and the arts, a large number of them had been extirpated, and according to present prospect a time would before long arrive when such materials as we now posless and which are bought and paid for, could not be got for money. Some of these naval articles had already been damaged for want of a feafonable apprepriation for the better protection both injurious to it, & unless their influence was precluded, they would foon render it unfit for the construction of ships. To preserve this timber from the unavoidable decay which awaited it, he hoped a moderate fum of money might be spared from the treasury. The erection of some sheds, covers and buildings fit to shelter these perishable things, would not require a large amount. This was one of the cases in which the expenditure of a small number of dollars would be productive of great and lasting good. To refuse it, would refemble the mistaken economy of the man who, after having built a magnificent house, could not persuade hanself to buy a lock for the street door. Mr. M. faid he would call the attention of the committee to another subject strictly connected with the one he had just mentioned. Besides the buildings contemplated, he thought there ought to be an allow. ance of some money towards repairs and improvements on such of the navy-yards as the officer at the head of that depart. ment should find it most convenient to employ. A fmall fum to be expended in levelling ground, in docking out, in erecting cranes, and the like, will greatly contribute to the dispatch of the public bufinels. He could mention a cale to evince the good economy of fuch an appropriation as he asked for. On the navy-yard at New-York, one of the finest and most felest spots on the coast of the Atlantic, some store houses had been begun and were unfinished, and consequently useless. The agent, deprived of the means of finishing them, was obliged to pay a confiderable fum yearly for storage in the city of New-York. He believed that an expenditure there equal to one or two years rent, which the nation must unavoidably pay, would finish these magazines and naval depositories, and save the further necesfity of paying an extravagant rent. The receiving, overhauling, repairing, and equipping of ships, ordered to that great naval rendezvous, would be promoted, and the public fervice fingularly aided by it. Mr. Mitchell concluded by moving and timbers, covered as they were with that the blank in the resolution should be sheathing, copper and ballast. Enough filled up with the words " fitty thousand | dollars."

Carried, without a division.

The second resolution was then read in the following words.

Referred, That for preventing rotten. nefs & decay in the ships of the navy, the President of the United States, be, and hereby is authorifed, to cause a dry dock, with convenient cannals, locks, machinery and water courses, to be constructed, at or near the public navy yard in the city of Washington; which dock shall be ca. towards improving the same for the great. pable of containing twelve figates, or the Navy, under the direction of the Pre- | and fafely sheltered from sun-shine and fident of the United States, shall cause the rain; and that for carrying the same into dollars be, and the same effect and other needful repairs and improvements | hereby are appropriated, to be paid out of any monies in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Mr. Mirchill rose, and after observing that the blank in the refolution required filling up with the words "half a million Mr. Mitchell observed, that there of dollars," a sum larger perhaps than fury, charged with the redemption of the public debt, moved that the committee

> Mr. Rutledge expressed a defire that the committee, previous to rifing, should progress in the consideration of the report that gentlemen who were prepared might offer their fentiments.

Mr. Mitchell again rose, and informed the committee, that his motion for the committee to rife did not proceed from any difinclination to discuss the merits of the proposition now before them. And to convince the gentleman of his fincerity in this he withdrew the motion for rifing. The history of this project was already very well understood. And the documents printed and exhibited for the information of Congress, had been, almost ever fince the fession commenced, before the eyes of the members. The contemplated public work was predicat. ed on a paragraph of the President's Mes fage at the opening of the fession. To elucidate the matters, beautiful and appropriate drawings of the docks and its locks had been laid before the house. Sur. veys and estimates had been made by engineers and geometricians, and these had been forwarded for Congressional instruction. Coming before the felect committee who reported the resolution, the recommendation was fo highly respectable, and to that object, may be employed not only I fun and the beating of the storms were | unanimous vote in its favor. For his own part, Mr. M. faid he was willing to admit the project a teafible one, and for the present he should not dispute it. The warfare with Tripoli was now upon our hands; and we might have other wars. The preservation of the ships of the navywas a great public object. The common mode adopted by nations he believed was to expend a confiderable fum of money annually in repairs. Ships could be hove down, or taken into dry docks, and undergo all manner of fearthing, caulking, coppering, and repairs. In the ordinary mode of taking thips in fuccestively, one dock, capable of containing one thip, would answer for a great number; and each vessel, after being dried, cleared, and overhauled, could be launched again into her element. The present object was somewhat different. It meditated a drydock, or receptacle, in which twelve large ships could be laid up at once. He did not know how far experience had warranted such an experiment. But he had been told of something of the same kind done in Sweden; and it had been faid that Venice had an establishment of a like nature. But the details of informa. tion concerning them were far from being fo ample and correct as would render them precedents in the present instance. If the object could be accomplished, the advance of the fum required for the work, would put the navy in such a state of preservation, that ships sheltered within the dry dock would remain a great length of time, un. injured by common accidents. With regard to new thips, not launched nor wet. ted in service, there could be no doubt they might be so covered and protected as to keep as well as furniture in a houle, While dry and shaded, there was no quel. tion of its ability to remain found and un. changed. But it was different with thips that had grown foul and water foaken in the ocean. It was very questionable whether the dampness acquired could ever be so thoroughly dried out as to prevent putrefaction. The water im. bibed would not eafily quit the planks moisture would, he teared, remain there to continue the process of corruption and decay in the wooden work. Such a mass of timber, soaked thro' and thro' would perhaps fall to pieces the faster for being kept a long time out of water, The receptacle would probably be damp, and ventilation imperfect. Septic vapours with moisture would exert their diforganizing powers. The atmospheric beat being greater than the temperature of river water would accelerate the rotting in fummer. And the expansive power of ice formed from the imbibed and confined water, might be expected to do no small mischief in winter. When a ship was under water her temperature was more equal, neither fo hot in summer nor cold in winter, as bodies above waters and confequently less exposed to the causes

He should not however proceed any forther at present on this copious subject; but fuspend further remarks until he should hear from the gentlemen who had turned their attention to the project, how this novel and economical propolition prefented itself to their understandings, and whether they felt any doubts like those

they will again bring to view what they before represented to Congress at their last festion, in their remonstrance upon the same subject. By continuing the operation of the laws of Virginia and Maryland, in those parts of the diffrict which formerly belonged to the two states respectively - by confirming the charters of incorporation to Alex. andria and George Town, and by granting a charter of incorporation to Washington, each possessing sufficient powers of police in most cases, Congress appear to your memorialists to have taken the wifest and most convenient course, and to have placed the diffrict in the most fatisfactory condition, which the present state of its copulation admitted. Under this arrange. ment there ought to occur but few occafions for the exercise of the legislative power vefted by the conflitution exclusivey in Congress; and, consequently, less of their valuable time will be required to be occupied with the affairs of the diffrict, than it there was a subordinate legislature. A subordinate legislature may be expected to give a great deal of trouble to Congress, by preparing very many laws for their deliberation and approbation, although the laws generally, as now in force, are found to be well fuited to our wants and circumstances. Your memorialists do not profess to be entirely satisfied with the present state of their civil concerns, yet they wish to avoid too great innovations, hoping, when the population of the diffrict shall be considerably increased, and experience shall suggest improvements, that they will meet with all reasonable attention from Congress. At present, the inhabitants on the south side of the river Potomac, are anxiously inelined to remain unconnected with those on the north fide of the river, under any orm of subordinate territorial government. Their habits, pursuits and views are difsmilar. On the fouth fide of Potomac the inhabitants, being almost universally engaged in some industrious calling, either in commerce, in the arts or in manufactures, wish to pursue it with as little interruption as possible. As they have no inclination to intermeddle with the conseems on the north fide of the river, they wish the inhabitants of Washington would be fatisfied to confine their cares and attentions to their own affairs. In this way much contention and strile may be prevented among the few inhabitants of the diffrict. In this way, a great deal of expence will be avoided, which would be very heavy upon individuals, most of whom have but a bare competence, and many of whom have been drawn to the district rather by the hopes of future advantage, than of prefent emolument. In this way much trouble will be faved to the national legislature, who will find it requifite only in a few inflances to make fome amendatory provisions, which experience has foggetted or may hereafter point out. Your memorialists regret that any of the time of Congress should be taken up by any unnecessary applications and petitions. This, however, is incident to the right of the people, a right ever to be held facred, of petitioning those in power for a redress of grievances; and although fuch applications have not been entirely avoided, your memorialists entertain the hope that the better fense of the inhabitants will prevail over a spirit of dissatisfaction and inquierude. Your memorial. ifts are aware that the present police is rapable of amendment, and when they shall have come to an understanding with the country part of Alexandria county, upon a plan of county police, the same shall he made known, so as to give the least possible trouble to your honorable body. In the mean time, relying with confidence on the equity and wisdom of Congress, your memorialifts trust the unequivocal expression of respectable a portion of the district, of their dissent to sny

territorial government, in its present

House of Representatives.

Friday, January 21.

An engreffed bill for incorperating an Insurance Company in the city of Walh. ington was read a third time and passed. Ayes 32, noes 28.

An engroffed bill for the relief of Hugh Alexander was read a third time and paffed.

The house went into committee of the whole on the bill amendatory of the act to incorporate the city of Washington. Mr. J. C. Smith in the chair.

Seteral amendments were made, when the committee rose and reported the bill, which was postponed till Monday next.

On motion of Mr. Dennis the house took into confideration a refolution, laid some time fince on the table, for the ap. pointment of a committee to enquire into the expediency of continuing the Mint at Philadelphia, and to enquire what alteralines are in Hudibras, but would swear tions or improvements can be made in that establishment.

Mr. Donis observed that the present law would expire on the third day of March next. It was time, therefore, to Billy Duane, Esquire. The points of take an order on the subject. He thoughe agreement are really fo curious, that we the enquiry proposed by the resolution a very proper one. If the refult of fuch enquiry were that important improve. ments could be made, he should vote for the continuance of the institution; if otherwise he should vote for its entire abolition.

> The resolution was carried. Ayes 45, and a committee of five appointed.

The house resolved itself into a committee of the whole-Mr. J. C. Smith assumed. In a note to this line in Hudi- in the chair-on the report of the committee appointed on the 7th inflant, to consider whether any, and if any, what alterations are necessary in the military establishment of the United States, a follows:

> The committee appointed on the 7th instant, to consider whether any, and if any, what alterations are necessary in the military establishment of the United States, alk leave to submit the following resolutions to the consideration of the

The second resolution was agreed to. Ayes 42, noes 17.

The 3d resolution was agreed to with. out a division.

The fourth resolution was opposed by Mr. Gregg, on the ground that the difcretion thereby vested in the President of the U. States was improper; and that if an appropriation for the clerk hire of the officers therein named was necessary, it ought to be made and defined by law.

On the question being put, the resolution was disagreed to. Ayes 25.

The committee role and reported the resolutions agreed to.

The house immediately took up the report, when Mr. Randolph remarked that notwithstanding the importance of the bufinels before the house, there was scarcely a quorum within the bar, in confequence probably of the intense cold, As he was averle to interesting business being thus conducted, he moved that the house ad-

ANECDOTE.

A number of students happening one evening to meet at an inn, the conversation chanced to turn upon the inequality with which tortune bestowed her lavors. Each, in his turn, giving some recent example of the instability of fortune; the conversation went on with mutual fatisfaction, till one being defirous to flew the purity of his principles, and withal, his improvement in the factionable (I had almost faid abfurd) mode of pronunciation, observed. that " the most splendid forchin was no. thing without virchue." This for a time, put a stop to the conversation. At length another happening to be a little conceited, and being unwilling to be out done, replied, " I ever consider myself the most forchinate when I find most opporchunities of relieving the unfouchunate. In all my advencture nothing fo immediately attracts my attention as a fellow creachur pressed under perpecthual frowns of mistorchin. The gratichude of those whom I relieve becomes a fource of fucher blifs, and projuces a degree of quiechude ever refulting from a rectichude of conduct; & enables me to bid defiance to the frowns of misforchin-or if the frown, enables me to bare up with fortenace. Attumbh the many grachuities may leffen the mans income, yet habitchual benevolence projuces inchaitive offeem which every good man is anxious to deferve and which will have a tendency to machure those latent feeds of virchue, which I believe are planted in every yuman breast. Of what fervice is the most refined literachure to a man if it projuce not benevolence, nor teach him to be virchuous? What if he be abie to tell the littichade and longichade of the north pole! What if he can account for all the phenomena of nachure? What if he know the scripchure, and understand all the impsteries of the Jewish richual? I say of what service is all this to a man, while his heart is hard to the poor? Who churns his back upon diffress; and whose most pleasing chune is the voice of the diffressed widow and the cries of the helpless orphan! Yes, I repeat it, he churns his back on diffress?
